1. Claim 36 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. Claim 36 discloses such device, however claim 35 never discloses "such device".

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-30, 35-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Anticole as cited by applicant in view of Smith et al.

Anticole discloses producing commands for current comprising generating command for current and preventing command from exceeding a limit dynamically determined as a function of power dissipation in a component estimated from a measured current level indicative of current in the component and as a function of a measured temperature proximate to the component see abstract, col 2 lines 30-50, col 3 lines 1-60 col 3, 5,8,9,10 and abstract, and fig 2,3,5,8,9,10. Anticole lacks disclosing plural motors. Smith et al disclose current limiting to plural motors, see paragraph 28. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to combine method of current limiting of Anticole with plural motors of Smith et al for protection.

4. Claims 31-34 are allowed.
